Railroad Deal.

P. Peck leaves today by the Claudine for Honolulu where he will take the Alameda for San Francisco. He goes in the interest of the Hilo-Kohala Railroad, which he has undertaken to finance.

The prospects for the beginning of work on the railroad are encouraging although the preliminary financial arrangements have not been entirely completed. There is yet a chance for the plans to fall through, but with Mr. Peck at the throttle it is generally believed that he will pull a train from Hilo to Hakalau before he leaves it. Mr. Peck states that the road if built must be con-structed by a combination of local and foreign capital, Hilo must come to the scratch and do something for her own re-demption. Kohala Court Term.

Sheriff Andrews returned Wednesday from Kohala where he attended the October term of the Third Circuit Court. Judge Edings presided. Owing to the fact that no funds are on hand to pay urymen, both the Grand and Trial jurors were excused from attendance. Nearly all of the civil cases were continued. There were eight criminal cases on the docket. Of these, three were continued. One defendant plead guilty, one withdrew appeal and the other cases were stricken from the docket.

The only case tried was the one above mentioned, the others being compro-mised on the basis of the verdict in the one case. All the appeals were from as-sessments made on herd cattle, which upon instructions from Honolulu were arbitrarily fixed at $15 per head. The verdict of the court was a reduction from this flat rate to $12.00 and $10.50 per head. The various other appellants were settled with upon the same basis.

These are the first cattle assessment cases to be adjusted and there are many others pending which may be influenced by this decision. Assessor Willfong has Company.

Outside capital first asks, how much stock will the Hilo people take? If the opportunity is offered, Hilo should take a arbitrary rate for the taxation of all cattle, the Territory would have received more money in taxes and had fewer appeals.
